

Security Services provided by Corporate Aviation Security International

In today's environment, security is a necessary concern for business aviation departments. Evolving threats range from property theft and senseless destruction to kidnapping, violence, attempted hijackings, or worse. Threats can emanate from common street thugs, cartels and other organized crime, terror and activist groups, even from inside your own organization. Effectively countering those threats requires increasing awareness and understanding the real-time atmospheric where you are and where you're going. It compels training personnel and preparing thoroughly to make your people and assets unattractive targets. In many locations, you will need trusted support close at hand to monitor, advise and support your team.

The Corporate Aviation Security International ("CASI") team is comprised of experienced professionals who bring the latest tactics, techniques and procedures from law enforcement, the armed forces, private industry, and government agencies. Team experience includes military and corporate aviation, special operations, intelligence, maritime and underwater operations, executive protection, emergency medical response, training, and more. CASI provides security solutions for corporate and private flight departments under three main categories of services: Assessments – Training – Consulting.

On-site Security Training for Aviation Personnel by CASI

This option supports your operation hosting a 1-day Security Training program for your aviation staff at your location. CASI will coordinate with you in advance to customize the day's plan from a menu of available security topics:

- Personal security management and threat mitigation: timely guidance to boost situational awareness of aircrews and executives; how to become a hard target against potential threats; evolving security trends that merit attention; contingency contacts and response capabilities.
- World travel advice: CASI instructors prepare your flight department based on real-time intelligence and years of overseas experience; cultural considerations for overseas travel to specific locales; recommendations for personal safety and security in the event of natural or man-made crises; options for communications; emergency contacts; and more.
- Active shooter survival: immediate actions you should (and should never) take; better-understand law enforcement response timelines and constraints from review of contemporary examples; discuss different types of active shooters, their motives, and insights to help you survive.
- Kidnap and ransom mindset: considerations essential to physical safety and emotional well-being should you encounter this situation; pre-travel guidance; types and motivations for kidnappings; what you should attempt to do at different stages of a kidnapping; how best to deal with kidnappers and how to stay mentally and emotionally positive until rescue.
- Defensive measure inside your aircraft: Examine what items can be used for defensive and offensive weapons (e.g. silverware, glasses, coffee makers, etc.); methods to de-escalate adverse situations; dealing with drunk or disorderly passengers; how to prevent people from boarding aircraft during attempted hijackings; and more.

- Executive Security Team Support: CASI can conduct tradecraft enhancement exercises with your current executive security team. Joint enhancement exercises are beneficial for the security team's proficiency and to ensure Standard Operating Procedures are comprehensive and current. Exercises can build teamwork between your security team and CASI in preparation for future real-world collaboration as needed.

CASI offers its 1-day security training program for $6930 plus instructor travel expenses. This Performance Vector offer provides a $2500 subsidy towards the program's cost, leaving $4430 plus instructor travel expense to be paid by the policyholder. Travel cost is computed and quoted by CASI when finalizing the training plan. Training events that require more than one instructor, more than one day of training, or that engage more than one organization's trainees are possible at additional policyholder cost.

About CASI

Corporate Aviation Security International, LLC (CASI) is a veteran-owned and operated security service provider for business aviation. Headquartered in Colorado, CASI is an expert security team comprised of top tier former international special operations leaders, military pilots, and law enforcement veterans. Our teammates have conducted overt and covert operations during combat and peacetime around the globe, flown extensive combat missions, and have protected and transported non-government organizations' (NGOs') personnel with a 100% duty of care. Furthermore, our teammates have provided executive protection for U.S. Ambassadors, Congressional delegates, dignitaries, and Fortune executives. CASI maintains a robust global network of vetted and trusted partners who support our international operations and missions. Learn more at casiprotects.com.