

Security Services provided by Corporate Aviation Security International

In today's environment, security is a necessary concern for business aviation departments. Evolving threats range from property theft and senseless destruction to kidnapping, violence, attempted hijackings, or worse. Threats can emanate from common street thugs, cartels and other organized crime, terror and activist groups, even from inside your own organization. Effectively countering those threats requires increasing awareness and understanding the real-time atmospheric where you are and where you're going. It compels training personnel and preparing thoroughly to make your people and assets unattractive targets. In many locations, you will need trusted support close at hand to monitor, advise and support your team.

The Corporate Aviation Security International ("CASI") team is comprised of experienced professionals who bring the latest tactics, techniques and procedures from law enforcement, the armed forces, private industry, and government agencies. Team experience includes military and corporate aviation, special operations, intelligence, maritime and underwater operations, executive protection, emergency medical response, training, and more. CASI provides security solutions for corporate and private flight departments under three main categories of services: Assessments – Training – Consulting.

Security-boosting support for your trips with special security concerns by CASI

This option supports policyholders that must operate in locations where elevated concerns exist for the security of aircraft, flight crews and passengers. CASI security advisors arrive at the destination ahead of your aircraft to conduct advance work and maximize awareness, including but not limited to:

- Vetting ground transportation companies, vehicles, and drivers (to extent possible)
- Assessing travel routes in and around your destinations
- Vetting hotels
- Vetting places of business, meetings, vacation, etc.
- Having "eyes-on" the atmospheric at your destination
- Providing real-time intelligence and go/no-go information to pilots, aircrew, and executives
- Continuously updating contingency plans
- CASI can also provide overwatch of aircraft and provide immediate notification of any issues with assets and/or their location, to facilitate timely initiation of contingency plans.

CASI will calculate cost of each trip support deployment based on the specific needs, location, and security environment of the destination. This offer provides a $2500 contribution toward one deployment of CASI trip support services during the policy year.

About CASI

Corporate Aviation Security International, LLC (CASI) is a veteran-owned and operated security service provider for business aviation. Headquartered in Colorado, CASI is an expert security team comprised of top tier former international special operations leaders, military pilots, and law enforcement veterans. Our teammates have conducted overt and covert operations during combat and peacetime around the globe, flown extensive combat missions, and have protected and transported non-government organizations' (NGOs') personnel with a 100% duty of care. Furthermore, our teammates have provided executive protection for U.S. Ambassadors, Congressional delegates, dignitaries, and Fortune executives. CASI maintains a robust global network of vetted and trusted partners who support our international operations and missions. Learn more at casiprotects.com.