

TAKE WING AND FLY WITH THE EXPERTS

At USAIG, We Like the Sound of Yes

If it flies or supports something that flies, we probably insure it with policies tailored to each unique operation, no matter how large or how small. Whether for private, corporate or commercial aircraft operations, or for those who manufacture, maintain or repair aviation or aerospace products or are engaged in an aviation-related business: We have or can create the perfect mix of coverages.

But the right policy is just the beginning. Our customers return year after year, decade after decade, even generation after generation, because we deliver exceptional claims service. Prompt. Professional. Fair. If your loss is covered - and we always look for ways to say "Yes," rather than excuses to say "No" - we will act quickly and efficiently to help restore you to full operation. Our financial structure - we are an insurance pool composed of individually sound member companies - provides a rock-solid foundation delivering unparalleled strength and stability, generating the capacity needed to properly insure any size aviation or aerospace operation.

Dedicated to Aviation

We are and always have been dedicated exclusively to aviation. In 1928, our founders - World War I pilots and businessmen David Beebe and Reed Chambers - saw the need for an insurance company that truly understood aviation. We remain a world aviation insurance leader, driven to promote safety and committed to offering the best insurance and service for the global aviation community.

We're proud of our legacy as America's First Name in Aviation Insurance®. We're equally proud that we have built on that solid foundation to remain an industry leader, driven by personal relationships, dedicated to exceptional service.

Elevating Safety

We offer a full range of programs designed to help aviation operations - regardless of size - stay at safety's leading edge. Our dedicated safety expert is available to help fine-tune your safety programs.

Performance Vector One of the industry's best safety training programs delivers a broad range of valuable, forward-looking training with insights, strategies and specific practical steps to minimize operational error and further enhance your safety culture.

Performance Vector PLUS Our individual good experience program returns a significant percentage of premium to operators who avoid losses while meeting meaningful safety standards.

Performance Vector Unmanned This evolving set of resources and services boosts the safety and compliance of USAIG-insured UAS operators refreshing with each policy renewal.

Flying in Tight Formation

Founded by aviation visionaries nine decades ago, we've played a role in many of the watershed events in aviation history. We don't rest on that legacy - we build on it. We focus on being experts in one thing: aviation insurance. Many of our team members are pilots, from the CEO on down. Critical as that expertise is, we think our key strength is how we use it. To build relationships. We get to know our customers. Analyze their operations. Understand their unique coverage needs. So should you have to file a claim, you'll be expecting help from a friend.

Take Advantage of Experts

USAIG, America's First Name in Aviation Insurance and an international leader as well, operates through one of the most extensive networks in the industry. Our experienced, knowledgeable underwriters work directly with local or specialized aviation insurance professionals to ensure optimum coverage. Our expert claims team delivers unmatched service to keep you flying.
